

Social Studies – Reflection of the Ancient Civilization Stations

For these stations, you worked on the following Social Studies skills to answer the essential questions and complete the activities.

Social Studies Skills

- Inferencing (using facts, observations, and logic or reasoning to come to an assumption or conclusion); also includes being able to assess cause and effect
- Determining key factors that led to an event or occurrence
- Assessing significance/importance of a person (people), place, event, or development
- Using imagination to create maps or other images to support learning
- Using perspective to imagine yourself in Ancient times and, therefore, show understanding about what life was like during that time
- Using graphic forms of communication, such as “Facebook” profiles, to present information

For your self-reflection, you will take a look at these skills and decide which are your strengths and which skills are in need of improvement based on the work you did on your stations. You will also talk about what you are most proud of; it can be the written response to your question or the activity you completed.

Talk about at least one strength, one skill in need of improvement, and the work you are most proud of. Use the labels “strength,” “need to improve,” and “most proud of” when taking your pictures to upload to Fresh Grade.

For example...

Determining key factors is one of my strengths because I was able to find 7 reasons why Ancient Greece went from one of the most powerful civilizations to being defeated by Ancient Rome. Another strength I have is using my imagination, I enjoy drawing so I was able to show what I learned about how geography and climate can affect a civilization, or even a city, on my map of an ideal environment.

I can improve on using perspective because it was a bit difficult for me to imagine myself as an Ancient Egyptian slave. I think I just needed to do more research to understand that role better.
